German's Eat Dog And Horse Flesh

RESULT OF THE MEAT SCARCITY
IN THAT COUNTRY—THE DIS-CUSSION IN THE REICH-STAG.

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—The Reichstag discussed interpellations of the government on the meat scarcity in Germany, introduced by the radicals and socialists. The Chancellor was asked whether the government was willing to improve the situation by opening the frontiers to the importation of cattle and by the bolition of or reduction in the duties on animal foods.

Herr Wiemer, radical, cited the wholesale price of meat in Germany as being 22½ cents a pound, while in Belgium it was 14c. in Spain 13½c., in France 13c. in England 13½c. in the United States 13c and in Russia 9½c.
He added that the various petitions and complaints of the commercial chambers and town councils were the best argument that the whole population felt the meat scarcity. The speaker further asserted that the meat consumption, which was over 400 pounds per head in Germany in 1904, was only a little over 306 pounds per head in 1906, while the consumption of horse and dog flesh had increased considerably.

Herr Wiemer also said that he had been informed that the German naval authorities had asked the government for permission to order foreign canned meat in case of mobilization. If the supply of German canned meat was insufficient.

Interior Minister Posadowsky-Wehner, replying in the name of the Chancellor, declaring that the latter was considering the possibility of permitting the import of cattle without restrictions from Austria and Switzerland, with certain precautions, and of cattle or preserved meat from Russia, Denmark, Sweden and Norway.
It was hoped that a reduction of the tariff on the inland transport of flesh meat would improve the situation, but the government declined to make any reduction of the duties on cattle or meat or to abolish any of the tariffs fixed by commercial treaties with various states. The Minister, however, expressed the hope that the home production, which already supplied 95 per cent. of the population, would expand under the protective tariff.

Minister of Agriculture von Arnim-Criewen pointed out that similar conditions existed abroad. The increase in the price of pork was caused by the scarcity of pigs in foreign countries.

RACE HALTED

EVELEN OF THE THIRTEEN RID-ERS WERE THROWN FROM WHEELS TO-DAY.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Dec. 13.—The six day bicycle race was halted nearly two hours this morning as result of a bad spill of eleven of the thirteen riders, which occurred during a wild sprint. Hollister was severely hurt and lay unconscious more than two hours. Other riders were only slightly bruised.
Twelve teams are still tied for first place with fourteen forty-one miles to their credit. Walthour and Bedell are one lap behind.
